EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

Can you walk us through what a typical day looks like for a professional working in the hotel industry?

A typical day in the hotel industry is dynamic and guest-centric. It usually begins with a quick review of occupancy reports and guest feedback, followed by morning briefings with teams. Throughout the day, professionals engage in ensuring service excellence, handling guest queries, supervising operations, coordinating with other departments, and maintaining standards. No two days are the same, which keeps the work both exciting and challenging.

What are the most important qualities you look for in a hospitality professional?

The key qualities include a genuine passion for service, adaptability, strong communication skills, attention to detail, and a proactive attitude. A warm personality, patience, and the ability to handle pressure are also crucial in creating positive guest experiences and working effectively in teams.

How was your experience interviewing students at Eagle Crest?

It is always a good experience. The students displayed enthusiasm and showed good communication. With continued exposure and practical experience, they have strong potential to grow into successful industry professionals.

What key advice would you give to young professionals aspiring to build a successful career in the hospitality industry?

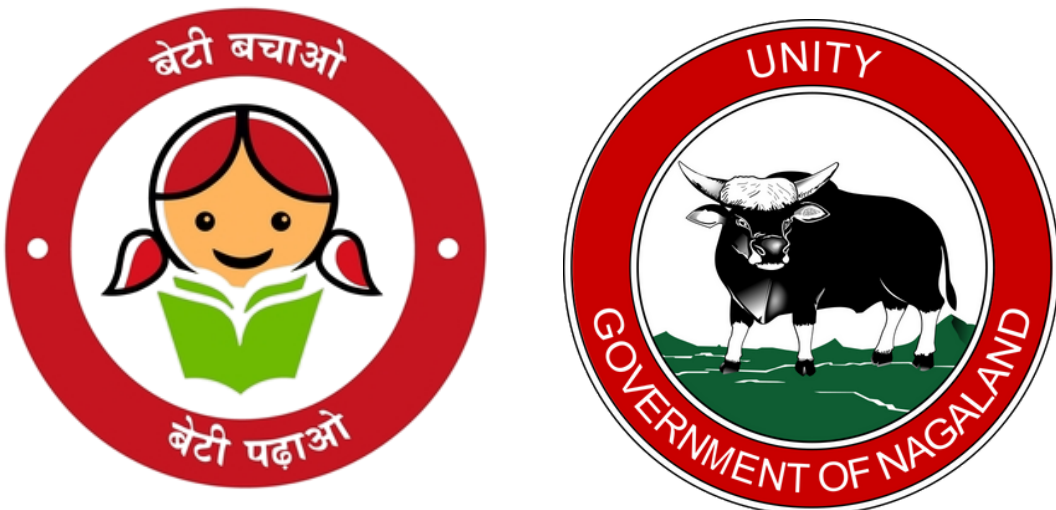

Be disciplined, open to learn and never underestimate the power of consistency and attitude. Prioritize guest satisfaction, embrace feedback, and always maintain professionalism.

VOICES OF VICTORY

JOURNEYS THAT INSPIRE.

Hi everyone, My name is Chandeno M Ezung and I'm from Dimapur, Nagaland. Currently working with Indigo as a Cabin Attendant for a year and half. It still feels surreal to say that out loud - especially when I think about how it all began.

It took me four attempts to finally get selected as a Cabin Crew. And let me tell you - the road was far from smooth. It was a journey filled with self-doubt, setbacks and silent prayers. But I held on, trusting in God's timing.

Since earning my wings, life has changed in ways I never imagined. Life as a cabin crew is a mix of beauty and challenge. From early wake-up calls to back to back sectors, sleepless nights and to moments when you miss home more than words can say.

But it's also the breathtaking sunrise and sunsets from the Jumpseat, the spontaneous laughs with your colleagues and the pure joy of helping someone feel safe and seen in the sky.

It's a story of growth in patience, in confidence, in heart. Every take off brought a new story and every landing left me a little more grateful.

To Eagle Crest Institute - Thank you for being my launching pad. I'll always be grateful for your guidance, encouragement and belief in me when I needed the most.

And to every young dreamers out there - This is a path that demands resilience, hardwork and heart. But if you have the passion and preserverance, it will reward you in ways you can imagine.

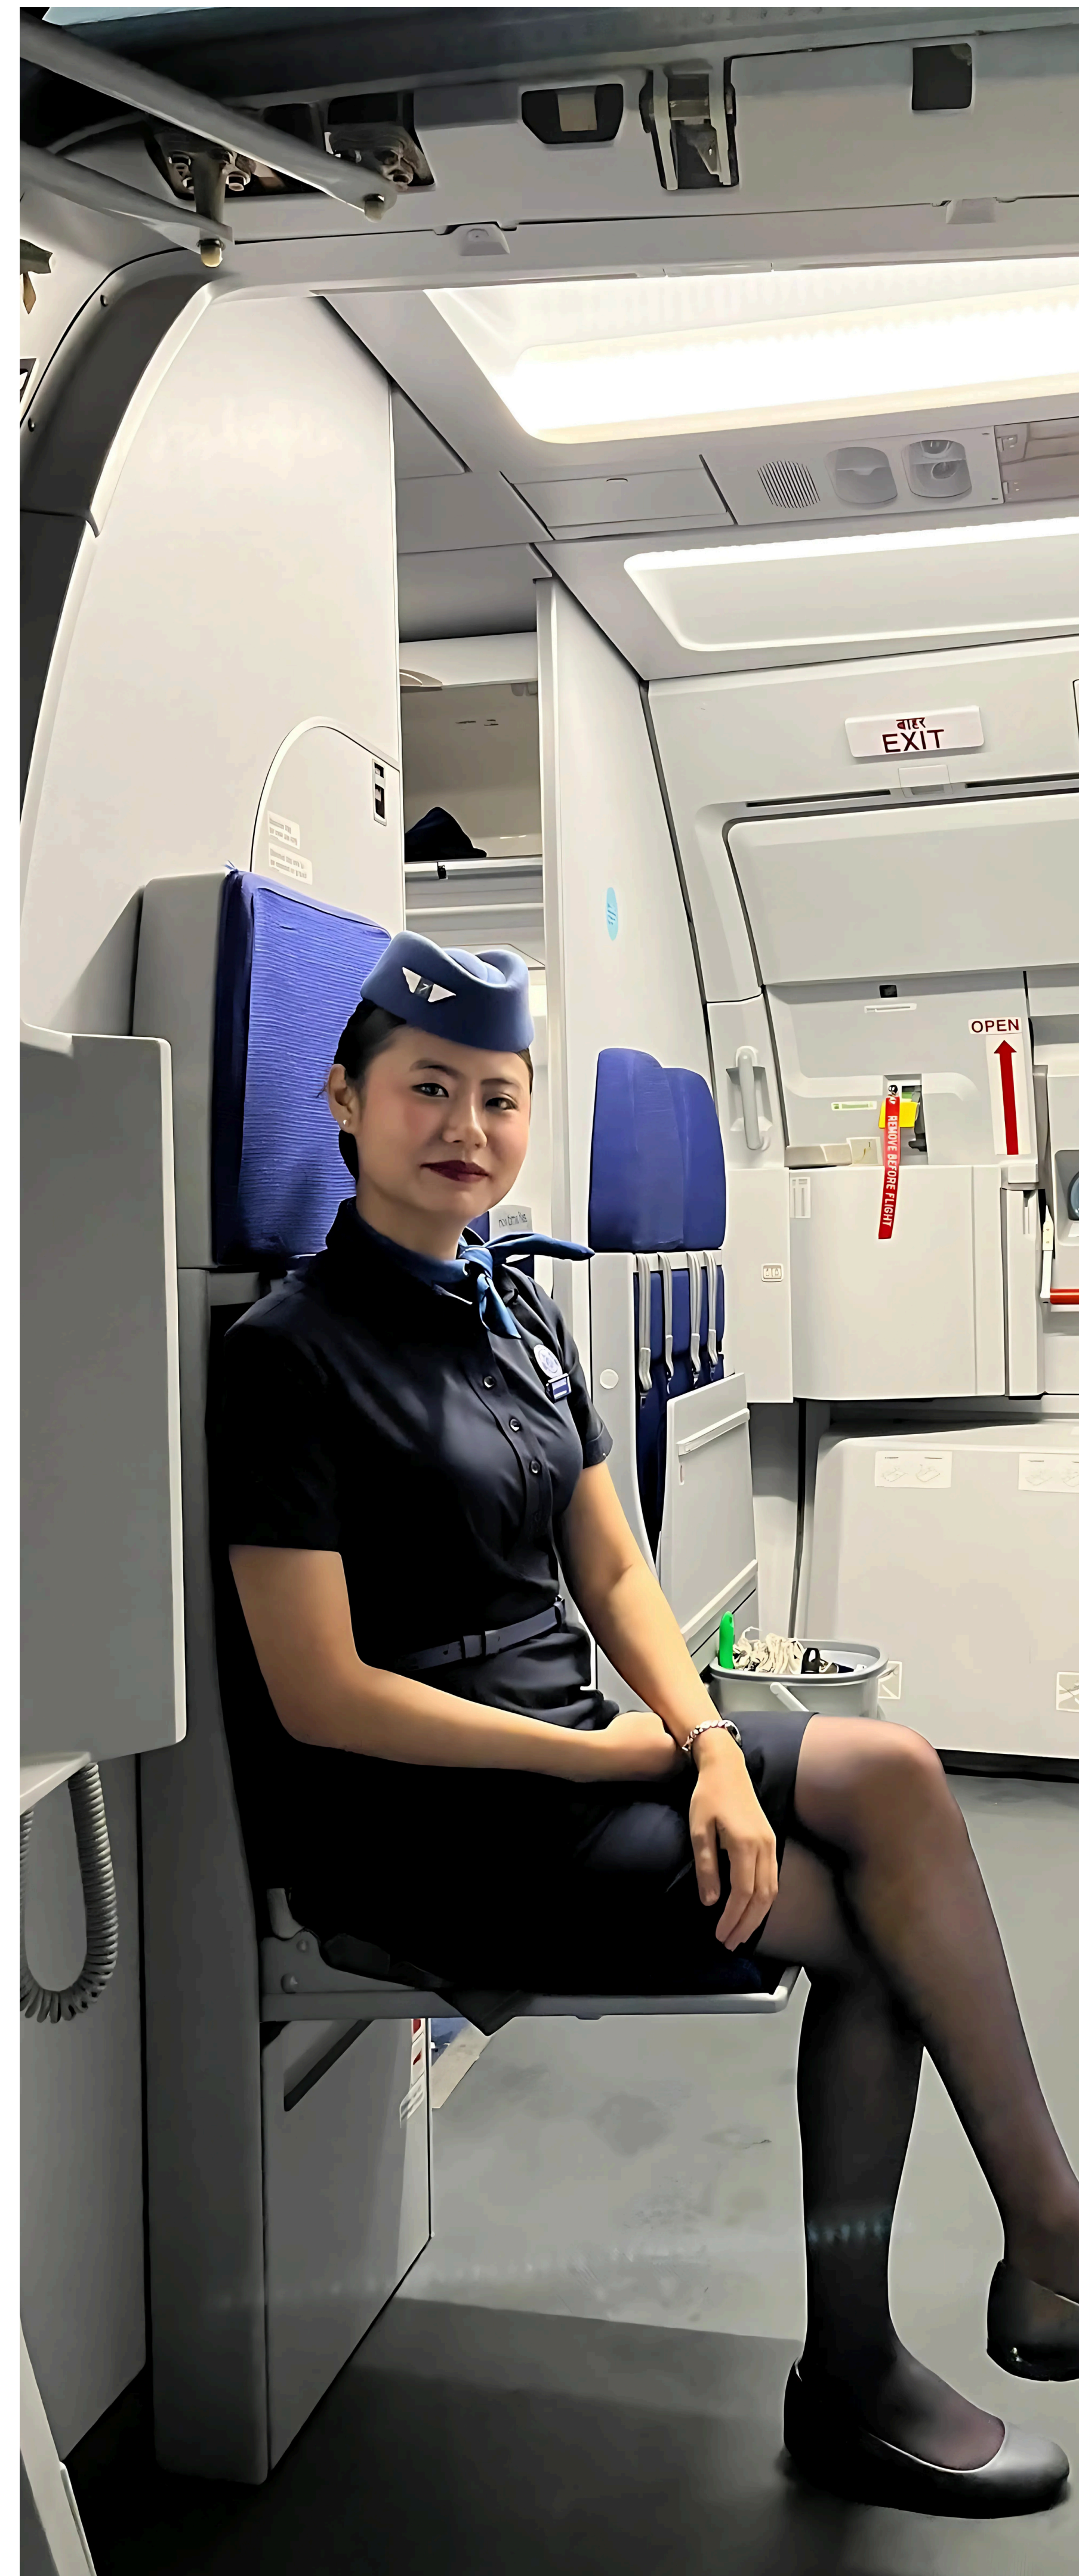

This journey of mine has been more than just flying from point A to B. It's been about connection, growth and deep appreciation for the little moments that happens 35,000 feet above the ground.

JOURNEYS THAT INSPIRE.

As I completed my two-month training at Eagle Crest Institute, I was selected to join the prestigious luxury 5-star hotel, Park Hyatt Hyderabad, where I began my journey as a waiter at the Asian restaurant, RIKA. Everything was new,new place, new people and I had so much to learn. There were many challenges ahead of me, but I chose to see each challenge as an opportunity to grow and become stronger.

After five months, driven by a keen interest in the bar, I made the decision to join the bar team and learn bartending. I truly enjoyed the work,crafting new cocktails, experimenting with ingredients. It was an exciting and fulfilling experience. Recently, I was promoted to the position of official bartender at RIKA restaurant, and I'm deeply grateful to Eagle Crest for guiding and supporting me in achieving this milestone.

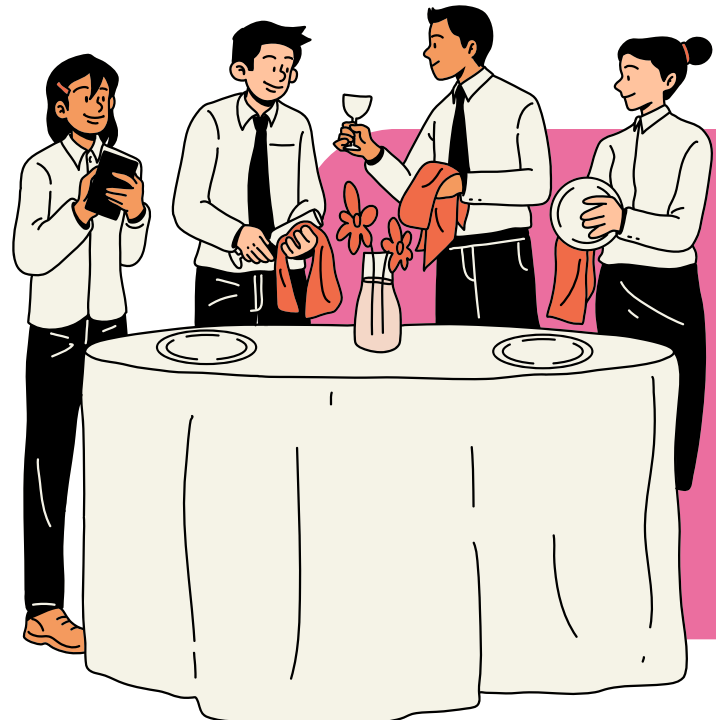

With this, I want to encourage the youth out there: You've got this. Your dreams are worth pursuing, and your potential is truly limitless. Believe in yourself, embrace every challenge, and never stop learning and growing.
